Where to Publish

- Look at similar papers in your field (citations)
- Check the journals scope and guide to authors
- Look at the open/green access policy
- Discuss with colleagues what is the best fit

What is OPEN ACCESS?

free, immediate,
unrestricted, online
access to peer-reviewed research and scholarly work

sharable (with attribution)

and fewer copyright and licensing restrictions

Open Access is

- Applicable to journals, books, data
- Free to readers
- But, is NOT free to produce
 - Costs still need to be covered
 - Author's may have to pay (APC)
- Available to ALL
 - Getting out from behind paywalls
 - Getting out from behind institutional subscriptions
- Is peer reviewed (it should be)
- Authors retain copyright
 - or at least use rights

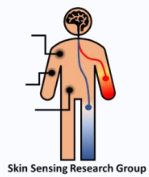

Why is Open Access important?

- Principle:

making research freely available to everyone supports a greater global exchange of knowledge

- Traditional publishing is expensive, outmoded, exploitative.
- Move from a for-profit business model to a cost recovery model.
- Research funded with public $$ should be available to the public.

Benefits to you

- OA articles are easy to find with web search tools
- readers  citations
 - Don't believe me about the citations, check this out <http://opcit.eprints.org/oacitation-biblio.html>
- People who don't have access to university libraries can read your work
 - students, practitioners, independent researchers, citizen scientists, researchers in developing countries
- Retain control of your academic property

And, you might not have a choice

Mandated access

Tri-Council funded research in peer-reviewed journal articles
MUST be made open access within 12 month

- Publishing in an open access journal
- Or archiving in a repository

(not now as a student, but in your career after graduation)

UK Research and Innovation

Swedish
Research
Council

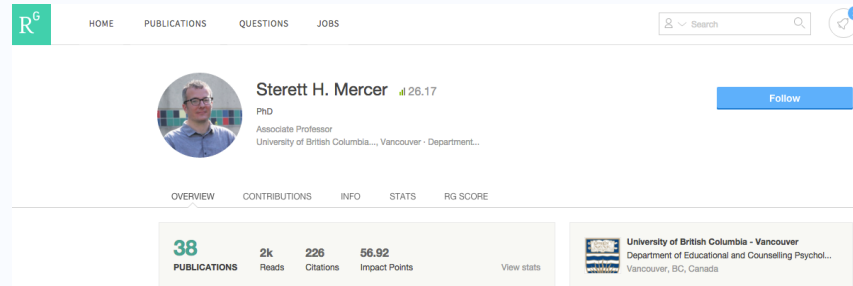

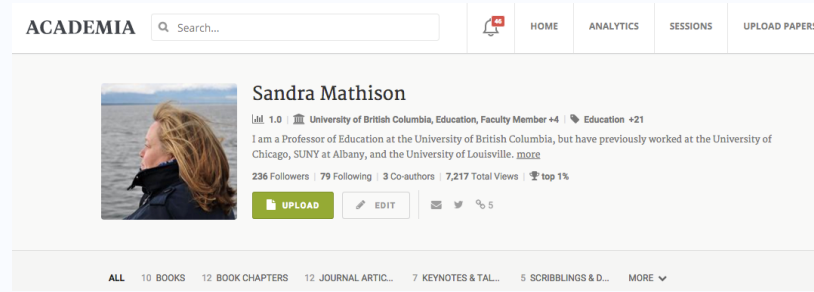

What if I don't have any funding?

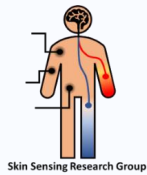

- Publish in a journal which allows self-deposit (Green open access)
- Find out if your hospital or research institution has licence agreements or 'block grants'
- If not, Partner with institutions which have licence agreements
- Find journals with Waivers
- Look out for special issues

Repositories

- cIRcle (UBC)
- Academia.edu
- Research Gate

How to publish in an OA journal

- Just like any other journal!
- Submit online, through a website like OJS
- Requires providing some meta-data
- And from there the process is the same

A screenshot of the Critical Education journal website. The page has a red header with the journal title in large, bold, red letters. Below the header is a navigation menu with links for HOME, ABOUT, LOG IN, REGISTER, SEARCH, CURRENT, ARCHIVES, ANNOUNCEMENTS, and SUBMISSIONS. The main content area is white and contains a section for "Announcements" with a sub-section for "CFP: Critical Theories in the 21st Century". The page also includes a search bar, a user login section, and a sidebar with various utility links like "JOURNAL CONTENT", "FONT SIZE", and "INFORMATION".

Directory of Open Access Journals (DOAJ)

DOAJ is an online directory that indexes and provides access to high quality, open access, peer-reviewed journals.

All journals that were accepted into DOAJ before March 2014 are now required to reapply. If you have a journal indexed in DOAJ, please log into your Publisher Area and follow the instructions.

Liars & Scammers: give open access a bad name

HINTS

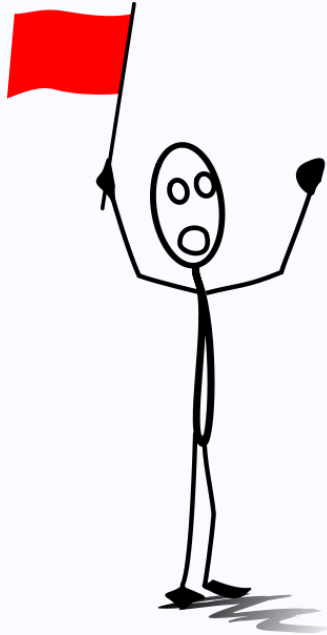

- Same editor, many journals
- No editorial board
- Unrealistic turnaround time
- Vague mission
- Poor grammar
- Unclear about APC

CHECK IT OUT

- Google it
- Ask a colleague
- Search the Library
- Check it out
 - SHERPA/Romeo
 - DOAJ
